Headway

What the Most Successful People Do Before Breakfast

Laura Vanderkam

Tune-up as needed

Adjust your goals where necessary to stay in the flow

Form a habit

Repeat a new habit for a few days to get used to the new routine

Prioritize your tasks

Do vital tasks in the morning and postpone less time-consuming tasks

Imagine a perfect day

Determine what a perfect morning is for you, then make it real

3 Things Successful People Do in the Morning

Develop their careers

Self-care and creative practices

Nurture their relationships

Key insights

What the Most Successful People Do Before Breakfast

Laura Vanderkam

1 Practice makes perfect

Making an effort to get things down to routines and habits at the start saves willpower in the long run. When something becomes habitual, it becomes an automatic process.

2 Prioritize important tasks

If you wait until you finish your least important tasks before starting your most important ones, you might not get anything done. If something important needs doing, it has to come first.

3 Start your day early

Avoid staying up late so you can get up early. Adequate sleep prepares you mentally for a new day.

4 Make the best use of your mornings

One huge difference between successful individuals and others is how they start their day. Properly using the period before breakfast may significantly boost your productivity.

5 Avoid pushing important tasks

After a long day of traffic and other activities that sap your energy, your self-control breakdowns occur in the evening, leading to a drastic reduction in your level of productivity.

6 Adjust your morning routines

The optimal morning routines are actions that provide long-term advantages when followed regularly. Practicing yoga and exercising are good for your body and soul.

7 Keep exploring

A run or bike ride can bring you exciting adventures. Use your weekends to explore new routines.

8 Eat with your family in the morning

In contrast to supper, when you may be exhausted or irritated, having breakfast with your family puts you in a pleasant mood.